City of Rockville Art Museum & Community Centre

Art is an expression of extreme contrast, which can be asymmetrical revolution that amazes the viewer’s mind and mesmerizes the viewer to think and experience the beauty. Based on that idea, this beautiful design of museum space which will be the house of some of the amazing artworks and communal activities also needs to be expressed in that same language through its exterior and interior spaces that will stand out as an asymmetrical contrast to the rigid symmetry of office buildings that are crowding the city of Rockville. A playful expression of horizontals that will help break the symmetry of the monotonous verticality that continues throughout Rockville by bringing life and beauty back into the city.
